Premier Zalmis thereupon declared the Government stood behind the War Minister and demanded a vote of confidence. This was refused by a vote of 114 to 147.

The discussion turned to the foreign policy of the Government. M. Veniselos declared it was impossible for his party longer to sustain the Government, whose policy he considered harmful to the interests of the country.

Premier Zaimis has been in office less than a month, having been asked by King Constantine to form a Cabinet after the resignation of Premier Venirelee Oct. The retirement of the Venirelee Ministry grew out of its policy in favor of entering the war with Servia against Butgaria, to do which M. Venirelee maintained, Greece was bound by her treaty obligations. The King took the ground that in the circumstances Greece was not obligated to take up arms.

M. Venirelee resigned the premiership in April owing to disagreement with the King on a similar question of foreign policy, but won a pronounced victory in the general elections of June and returned to office in August. His majority in Parliament remained intact after his retirement last month and the Zaimis Ministry was able to maintain itself before Parliament only by the acquisesance.

Official Russian Statement Offers a Friendly Hand to the Bulgarians

PETROGRAD, via London, Nov. 4. THE Russian Foreign Office has issued the following statement with respect to Balkan affairs: "The reproaches in the German press against the allies for violating Greek territory are not justified. The allies had been invited by Greece to send troops through her territory to help her ally. She had even mobilized with that object in view.

"A change in Cabinet in Athens has brought about no modification in the Hellenic policy respecting the passage of troops, although it has resulted in a decision to maintain neutrality. "The Imperial Government, as also its allies, would have conidered not only disloyal, but morally criminal, an act contrary to the principles of right and justice, which have determined Russia to come to the defense of signed treaties and of the independence

"To divest war of all its moral strength would be a folly if not a blunder. We want a strong and independent Greece and we are ready to recognize in her behalf the territorial enlargements which she needs to this end in Europe and Asia Minor. herself prepared to recognize the justice of these ambitions.

"Several Rumanian statesmen recommend action by Rumania on the side of the quadruple entente. When the hour for a confraternity of arms sounds we are certain that the thought will be shared by all Ru-mania and that it will be crowned with the same success as attended the last war with Turkey.

"The fact that some Russian news-papers are adopting a critical atti-tude toward the Foreign Office may possibly be given undue importance abroad by persons who assume that Russian newspapers are necessarily either inspired or upder narrow re-

"The Foreign Office rarely exercises the right of offering the press gratuitous suggestions, unless the in-terests of the state imperiously regire a cautious attitude by the newspapers toward current questions.

"The Foreign Office assumes that not talked about is not worth talking about. Criticism is free and is not resented, though sometimes it is unfair. It actually and naturally foresaw the trend of the Turkish policy, but, not hunting for addition les, deferred the outbreak of the war as long as possible. The history of the recent Russo-Bulgarian relations is somewhat similar.

"The Foreign Office saw a year age that Bulgaria probably would align herself with Germany and Austria. It tried to prevent this happening, and, when it became inevitable, to defer the breach. This policy beinvited German and Austrian officer into the staffs of its armies.

The Post-Dispatch recently asked Gen. POLIVANOFF. Russian Minister of War.

(Copyright, 1915, by Press Pub. Co.) PETROGRAD, Nov. 4.—It is now five nonths since the Austro-Germans, having assembled enormous forces and very powerful artillery, commenced offensive operation on the easter front, hoping to envelop and destroy the Russian army before the coming of winter. In spite of our serious lack of artillery amunition, due to the fee velopment of Russian industry, all the attempts of the enemy to destroy our forces were paralyzed.

Having taken stock in August of the impossibility of obtaining a decisive iccess in the direction of Moscow, the Austro-Germans in September concer trated their forces on the front of the western Dwina, which is a powerful atural cover, whose occupation would permit the Germans to turn their prin cipal forces in the direction of Moscow, the old route of Napoleo tain there a decisive success so indispensible for them.

In spite of numerous artillery, the em loyment of large forces and the innumerable losses suffered by them, the Austro-Germans during five months have not succeeded in installing themelves on the line of the Dwina, and at present have not a chance of attain-ing either Dvinsk or Riga by the fire of their heavy artillery.

In the lake region south of Dvinsk the Russian troops not only have repulsed the attacks of the enemy's forces, but entinue to advance systematically to ward Vidzy, the important junction of the railroads of that region.

Gallantly concentrating their efforts on their ultimate object, the Russian roops are now provoking the enemy. more than ever, toward the exhaust of his forces.

VLADIVOSTOCK, Oct. 10.—Before the reat European war began Vladivostock had more than 100,000 inhabitants. Today its population is less than 75,000, so heavy have been the calls of the Russian army upon the men of Eastern Si beria. The latest summons will take 10,000 from Vladivostock alone. These new recruits are being sent away at the rate of 1000 a day. Many of them are badly needed in Vladivostock to held take care of the war supplies which are plutting the port. But the call of the army is unqualified. The Russian Government was slow to call out reservists in Siberia. Men are few and much needed in this new country. The Government has expended great sums in encouraging emigration to Siberia and hesitates to take the cream of the colony's manhood back to the battle line. Hired by a "German."

Several weeks ago magnetos were stolen from 30 motor trucks which had been shipped to West New York from Cleveland. The absence of the magnetos was not discovered until the trucks reached England. In arrests made, it is reported that nine men confessed that they had been hired to disable the machines by "a German." It was estimated that there were 40 tires to the car. This would make a total of 3300 tires stolen. Seven prisoners are alleged to have stated that they had been engaged by "a German."

Some of the tires and some of the magnetos were offered for sale in Newark and at points in Pennsylvania at very low prices. The size marks on the tires were in the metric system, which caused attention to be directed to the tires. The tires came from Akron. O.

It is thought by officials in the case that handicapping of the allies' motor transportation was the primary object of the thefts. The German alleged to have engaged the bands of freight car marauders is under surveillance.

Demand That Public Be Taken into Confidence of Government Made by Lord Morley.

LONDON, Nov. i.—London, deeply proused by the discussion yesterday in the House of Lords of the merits of stillsh press censorship, patiently waits the resumption of the argument donday when more friends and foes of the system will be heard. Thus far even the defenders of censorship admit de diorable blunders have been made in uppressing the real news, but it is delared that they were in the interest of protecting the army and due to inxperience of the press bureau.

Lord Moriey criticized the affect on sutrals of "the ostrich-like activities and childish insincerities" of the cenorship, and added that he had never sen a Government or an administration less in need of a censored press han the present one. He had never sen addicted to undue giorification of he infallibility of public opinion, but was not half as fallible as the opinion of Monarchs and Ministers, even time Ministers. Referring again to the censorship, he asked the Government to take steps to prevent official interference with the publication of intelligence unless it was calculated to prejudice military and havel operations. The freedom of the press he declared to be as important as the greatest constitutional issue and he agreed with Lord Selborne when he spoke of the stupidity of the censor's actions. Everything which made the enemy think the country was afraid of the truth was an encouragement to the enemy.

The Lord Chancellor, Sir Stanley O. luckmaster, replying to Lord Morley, aid he believed that a strict and vignous censorship was required for the stety and protection of the troops. The morable was designed to prevent improved and to prevent home newspapers om printing anything that might be use to the enemy.

Because of lack of experience, the right history of the press bureau, he is, was deplorable and its actions we often unjust and unreasonable, but wer intentionally unfair. The state-int that the London editors were distincted with the press bureau as it stated today was absolutely contradictive the facts. Committee of Belgians Ask for Literature in French and Flemish, Also Dictionaries.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—Among the thousands of Belgian soldiers now in hospitals in England and in France, detained in camps in Holland, and prisoners in Germany there is a widespread need of good books, and a committee that has been formed to enlist American aid in the matter announces that books or money for their purchase will be received by Pierre Mall, Belgian Consul-General in New York.

The members of the Honorary Compittee include Emmanuel Havenith, the Belgian Minister at Washington; Joseph H. Choate, Charles J. Bonaparte, the Rev. J. F. Stillemans of the Belgian Relief Fund, and Louis de Sadelier, Minister of State for Belgium, who is in New York.

A statement by the committee reads:

"The heroism of the Belgian soldiers has won universal admiration.

"Thousands of them are now in hospitals in England and in France, detained in camps in Holland, and prisoners in Germany.

"Suffering and deprived of liberty, without news frem their relatives now somewhere in poverty or dead, the anxiety of those brave men must be most painful.

"Well educated as they are, and with-anxiety of those brave men must be most painful.

"Well educated as they are, and without recreations any intelligent person is looking for, nothing can do more to alleviate their sufferings than literature in their own language.

"There is a real need among those Belgian soldiers for books in French and Flemish and to a certain extent in English (especially works of travel and novels, history, books on electricity, mechanics, motoring, etc., and illustrate i magazines of all kinds; also grammars for the study of English; French-English dictionaries and vice versa)."

BANKERS TRUST CO. HAD STOCK IN 150 BANKS, RECEIVER SAYS

He Testifies in R. C. Morrow's Suit Against Directors for $00,275—Lin-bilities Reduced by $300,000.

Leon W. Quick, receiver of the Bankers' Trust Co., testified yesterday as a witness for the plaintiff in the case of Harry C. Morrow of Clayton, who is swing John E. Franklin and other directors of the Bankers Trust Co. for $09,275, which he invested in stock of the commany.

Quick said that when he took charge as receiver he found among the assets stock in about 150 banks with a par value of $420,000. The witness was asked by the plaintiff's attorney what was realized for the sale of such stocks, but Judge Hennings sustained an objection on the ground that the price obtained at a receiver's sale would not be an indication of true value.

Quick said he found liabilities of $1,500,000, which he had succeeded in reducing to $1,000,000.

The principal asset of the trust company is majority ownership of the San Antonio, Uvalde & Guif Railroad, the financing of the construction of which was the one cause of the failure of the trust company, it is alleged. The trust company holds bonds of this railroad.

FORT WORTH, Tex., Nov. 4- Affable Stranger Borrowed

Suddenly the "Prince" disappeared.
Police inquiries were fruitless for a time, but at length Hafiz fell under another charge of impersonation and was arrest-ed. He escaped from a too-confiding po-liceman, who allowed him to enter his house to find a great-coat, and once again he pursued his career in every possible disguise until at last the police arrested him, very definitely this time, and a Criminal Court gave him two years' imprisonment on a charge of

Was Admirable Prisoner.

Hafts Negulb was an admirable prisoner, profuse in his protestations of amendment, and when liberated he anamendment, and when liberated he announced his intention of becoming a lecturer, and indeed astonished a British police officer by requesting permission to lecture in public, "Morality" being the theme of his discourse.

There is at Cairo a certain missionary hospital. An Arab lady repaired thither for treatment, and there she was often visited by her husband, a dignified heikh of Al Azhar, whose benisnly, austere appearance, polished and poetical Arabic, and dignified courtesy endeared him to all. A missionary, emboldened by the affability of the venerable man, approached him one day on a matter o business.

Near the hospital was a very desirable plot of land which the missionary wished to acquire. Its owners were Moslem divines of the University of Al Ashar, and the missionary feared that if they did not refuse to sell the land to ministers of a rival creed they would at least ask a prohibitive price. "Leave that to me," quoth the Sheikh; "you have cured my wife, you are my friends; let me only negotiate with these Ulema." Meanwhile the Arab lady left the hospital.

The missionary waited. Presently the while the Arab lady left the hospital.

The missionary waited. Presently the Sheikh returned with tidings of success. On payment of a few hundred dollars earnest money the Ulema would sign a deed of sale. The missionary paid—and has not since then set eyes upon his money or Hafiz Neguib.

Stole Wedding Presents.

Some months later an agent of the secret police struck up an acquaintance which ripened into friendship with a which ripened into friendship with a well-read and urbane stranger. The agent's friends and friends friends made the stranger's acquaintance. His wit and learning charmed all, and thus it was quite natural that he should be invited to a marriage feast given by a more important secret policeman. There, though till then unknown to most of the guesta, the stranger "held the floor."

most of the guests, the stranger "held the floor."

None showed a greater command of all the social arts; well-turned compliment, sprightly, anecdote, witty reply were all his; and so much had he charmed his hosts that when he asked permission to address a few words concerning their marital duties and responsibilities to the newly-wedded pair, the secret policeman bade all, and notably his son-in-law, give ear.

Speaking with excellent tasts and persuasive eloquence, the stranger draw "ears from some and loud applause from all," and modestiy effaced himself in favor of the principals. Soon the guests began to depart. "Where," it was asked, "was the admirable and learned orator?" He was not to be found—nor were the wedding presents. And Cairo, Arab and European, is still laughing at the latest exploit of Hafis Neguib, and wondering what will be his next clever ruse.

NEW SEAMAN'S LAW EFFECTIVE TODAY FOR AMERICAN VESSELS

Not Applicable to Ships Admitted Under Foreign Registry Act
Until Sept. 4, 1916.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4—The new seaman's law, regulating conditions of service on all American merchant vessels not admitted to registry under the foreign registry act, is in effect to-day.

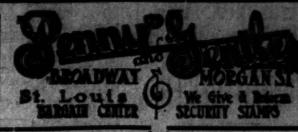

Tears of shipping interests that the law would operate to delay schedules of vessels due to leave ports today, were dispelled by an order issued by Acting Secretary Thurman of the Department of Commerce. This order provided that vessels that had made a bonafide effort to comply with the requirements of the law would be allowed to clear despite their inability to obtain a crew in strict accordance with the act.

Addressing the night-shift men in the open air, Mr. Churchill said it was not a very easy moment for a public man to open his mouth on any topic, because there were so many people who seemed to have less to do than they ought, and who were actively engaged in trying to make difficulties, even more than those which existed at the present time, and were seeking to make artificial divisions of opinion in the country in regard to matters of great consequence, which, above all, should be approached in a spirit of impartiality and good will.

It was very difficult to know in what mood one should approach the consideration of public affairs, he said, and particularly of that vast topic which overshadowed all their lives and actions—the war.

"Now, my difficulty is this: I want to say both these things to you, and so I am very likely to receive chastlement from both sides. I am very likely to be exposed to what they cail in France and Flanders, a double enflade.

"I see before me," Mr. Churchill continued, "men who in their proper spheres, at the tasks of skill and strength to which they have devoted themselves, are enabling our divisions at the front to carry out their duty, by supplying them with those weapons of war and munitions without which no courage, no skill, and no military virtues can, in modern times by themselves prevall. And it must be an encouragement to you in your work, which makes so great a demand upon your strength and attention, to dwell on the close and intimate association between your day-to-day prosaic task, and the great and terrible drama of the world's history which is being enacted on the other side of the water.

Difficult for Allies of the water.

Difficult for Allies.

"During the last four or five months the affairs of the allies have not gone so well as we might have hoped. First, in May and in June, our armies in France and Flanders delivered a series of resolute and very costly attacks upon the German fortified line in their front.

"Ground was gained. Guns and prisoners were taken, but for all our efforts the fact remains that those lines were not pierced, and the general military situation in the west was not decisively, or even substantfally, affected.

"Then we have had a great battle at the Dardanelles, and here again, though we have gained invaluable ground which has led us forward towards a decisive conclusion, we have not yet gained those one led us forward towards a declaive conclusion, we have not yet gained those vantage points at which we are siming and which we might reasonably have ex-pected with the forces employed to have "The armies there are like men fight ng on a high and narrow scaffold above the surface of the earth. When you der how very narrow is the platform, how very short the distance involved, you will see for yourselves that we have only to persevere with resolution and unflinching courage to move forward to a conclusion which, when it is achieved, will repay all the heavy cost and loss we have endured.

Hangs in the Balance.

"But still that great matter hangs, as I have told you, in the balance of events, and that is the second great military fact of the last three, or four months. But then there is the greatest of all—far greater than either of these two: I mean the invasion of Russia by the German and Austrian armies, in enormous strength, and the consequent retreat of our gallant Russian ally.

"Here, again, there is light as well as shadow. We have seen with what skill and firmness the Grand Duke has withdrawn his armies unbroken, intact as a military force, in spite of heavy losses in men and in weapons.

The state of the supply of munitions in Russia during the months which lie immediately before us does not permit us to hope that the Russian power can be exerted to anything like the same extant as it was in the earlier periods of the war; and, therefore, while Russia is rearming and gathering again her inexhaustible strength, inspired by the brave heart of her people, while she is fitting herself to attack the enemy anew, a grave and as yet unmeasured additional burden falls on us.

"We shall not shrink from bearing it, grave and as yet unmeasured additional burden falls on us.

"We shall not shrink from bearing it, and we shall not fail in the duty which this new situation imposes upon us.

"We know in this time of crisis and of strain that, if we do our duty, we shall have done all that it is in human power to do, and we shall so bear ourselves in this period—whatever part we play upon the stage of the world's history—that those who come after us will find, amid the signs and scars of this great struggle, the liberties of Britain and of Europe still intact and inviolate, and those looking back upon our efforts, such as they have been, will say of this generation, this unhappy, but not ingiorious generation, placed in a position of extraordinary trial. They did not fall in the test, and the torch which they preserved lights the world for us today." trading in your old $24.00 re you get this for $24.00 Easy Terms Garpets and Rugs

TEXT OF SECOND NOTE FROM AUSTRO-HUNGARIAN EMPIRE TO THE U.S. ON WAREXPORTS

Translated From Newspapers Which Have Reached America From Dual Monarchy-Not Given Out by State Department.

It conformed to the canled other group of believes the state of the canled other group of believes to the other group of believes the other group of the other group of believes the other group of the other g summaries, it was explained, and it was said that a reply probably would not be made by the United States, as the officials at Washington did not believe from the tenor of the communication that

The note, as translated from the Aus ro-Hungarian papers, follows:
"From the Imperial and Royal Austro-Hungarian Minister for Foreign Affairs to the Ambassador of the United States of America in Vienna.

"The undersigned has had the hono receive the note of August 16, No 2758, in which his excellencey, the Amhassador of the United States of America, Mr. Frederic Courtland Penfield. was pleased to define the stand taker by the Government of the United States of America toward the imperial and royal Government concerning the supply of war materials to Great Britain and "The arguments set forth by the Washington Cabinet disclose the vari-ous viewpoints that actuate the Federal Government in this connection and, in its opinion, prevent it taking into account the views expressed by the im-perial and royal Government. Although the imperial and royal Government has laid stress upon investigating most minutely the contentions of the Wash-ington Cabinet, their most careful examination cannot move it to depart from the point of view which it has made clear in its note No. 59465 of June 29. Difference as to Interpretation.

"The remarks of the Federal Govern ment are mostly based upon the erroneous premises that the imperial and royal Government had essentially denied the right conceded by article 7 of the fifth and thirteenth conventions of the fight and the result of the fifth and the result of the result The Hague to nationals of neutral Pow rs to supply contraband to belligerthe imperial and royal Government had expressly stated in the aforesaid note that the wording—and the wording only—of the clause referred to formally warranted the sufferance by the Federal Government of the trade in war materials as at present pursued by citizens of the United States of "The imperial and royal Government naturally never sought to prevail upor

the Washington Cabinet to depart from the Washington Cabinet to depart iron an existing treaty; it only pointed out that, in its opinion, an interpretation of said clause should be avoided that would be contrary to the fundamental idea and the highest principles of the laws of neutrality. A certain danger attaches to the gradual codification of international law, inasmuch as the wording of the conventions governing the laws of the nations might be considered as more important than the elementary principles underlying these laws when they have not been specifically formulated in international treaties.
"Such a limited interpretation should avoided, particularly with respect to the laws of neutrality; for this very reason the preamble of the thirteenth convention of The Hague (second and hird paragraphs) emphasizes that th pulations of this agreement represent rely fragments that do not apply to all the circumstances which may arise in practice, and that therefore these tipulations will have to be amended r completed according to the general iples of international law.

Objection to Militarisation.

"The imperial and royal Government has, accordingly, confined its arguments to the question of whether the interpretation of the already quoted clause would not be limited by these princi-ples; when, in support of its assertion that this would be so, it referred to the opinion expressed in international thorities on the subject who have spe-cially examined whether the exportation of war materials, against which no objection can be raised in normal circum-stances, would not at times imply a breach of neutrality. The assertion to he effect that the authors unanimously agree that the exportation of contraand is contrary to neutrality is not to found in any paragraph of the note "Furthermore: the imperial and royal

Government has in no way pleaded in favor of the principle of 'equalisation.' s a matter of fact, it did not base its uggestion, concerning the exportation suggestion concerning the exportation of war materials on the fact that it was not in a position itself to import war materials from the United States of America, the imperial and royal Goverents were to share in the supply of war materials from the United States of America, the Imperial and Royal Government would, nevertheless, maintain nat the excessive exportation of wal naterials would be objectionable. "The imperial and royal Government ought of suggesting that, be utral Power, this disadvantag be balanced by prohibiting the other group of belligerents. "A comparison with the former Is all the more out of place since those wars were waged between two single Powers, or at least between groups of a few Powers only. When munitions of war from one neutral country were supplied to one belligerent only it was then possible for the latter's enemies to apply to other neutral countries. In the present war, however, the United States of America is the only Power that can be effectively considered for such supplies. This circumstance further contributes to give to the exportation of munitions of war from the Union a different and far mere serious character than the exportation of contraband has ever had in the past.

"Since these various facts, unforeseen, have become clearly manifest in the course of the present war only, the Austro-Hungarian Government thinks it is justified to hold the opinion that, in accordance with the last paragraph of the preamble of the thirteenth convention they should constitute a sufficient reason for modifying the regulations that govern the trade in contraband in the United States. The absolute and strict impartiality which the Washington Cabinet is anxious to observe, and therefore the abstaining of any direct or indirect assistance and support of one belligerent are undoubtedly the right of a neutral Power. If experince should teach that an embargo in any direction should in the course of the war become necessary to that end, then the Power concerned is justified to modify its former policy of applying neutrality.

"On the other hand, the present case therefore has to be considered as a 'cas Company."-ADV.

accordance with the preamble of the ciples of international law, as has ready been explained.

The suggestion of the imperial and val Government concerning the supply foodstuffs and raw materials was wise not based on the assu hat a neutral Government would be ound to compensate the advantages a sined by one belligerent over the other by a system of nonintercourse with the former. The note of June 29 makes it clear that this suggestion was made solely for the purpose of pointing out to the Washington Cabinet which declared that, as a consequence of the situation created by the war, it had tecome impossible for the United States of America to maintain its trade relations with the central Powers, that it is Continued on Next Page.

Look, mother! See if tongue is coated, breath hot or stomach sour?

"California Syrup of Figs" can't harm tender stomach, liver, bowels

Every mother realizes, after giv-ing her children "California Syrup of Figs," that this is their ideal lax-ative, because they love its pleasant taste and it thoroughly cleanses the tender little stomach, liver and bowels without griping.

When cross, irritable, feverish or breath is bad, stomach sour, look at the tongue, mother! If coated, give a teaspoonful of this harmless "fruit laxative," and in a few hours all the waste, bile and undigested food passes out of the system, and you have a well, playful child again.
When its little system is full of cold.

Vhen its little system is full of cold, throat sore, has stomachache, diarrhoea, indigestion, colic—remember, a good "inside cleansing" should always be the first treatment given. Millions of mothers keep "California Syrup of Figs" handy; they know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs" which is wholly different from all preceding ones. It is a novum (original), which as pointed out above, does not come under the already quoted article 7, and therefore has to be considered as a 'cas

Four Important "Newfashioned" Advantages

urlington Newfashioned Hosiery is It is fashioned to fit perfectly and retains its correct shape.

It has double-thick toe and sole, with high-spliced heel.

It wears better, looks better, fits better, is more comfortable, and represents higher value than is to be found in any other hosiery.

These advantages and refinements are due to the invention of a machine which mits the entire stocking from the toe

Automatic production, greatly reducing the cost of manufacture, makes it possi-ble to use better yarns, insuring longer wear, more comfort, and increased value to the purchaser.

to learn, are also considered as unlawful by the Government of the United States

ent. The imperial and royal Govnt believes that an argument could all the less be therefrom de-rived against a suggestion admitted by a neutral power as justified from the point of view of neutrality and otherwise, since the Washington Cabinet certainly will not consider it as a duty of a neutral power to render its situation toward both belligerents as unequal as possible, or, when such a state of inequality exists to undertake no steps whatever with a view to modify it. Question of an Embargo "Whereas, the Federal Government has understood that, according to the imperial and royal Government, the exportation of arms and muni-tions is contrary to the last paragraph of the preamble of the XIIIth Convention, it should be emphasized that—as already pointed out above—the imperial and royal Government bases its stand against the excessive exportation of munitions of war on the second and third paragraphs of said preamble. The reference to the last paragraph was made in connection with the unlawful exclusion of Austria-Hungary from commercial intercourse with America and was intended to convey the sug gestion that the exclusion in itself would justify the issuance by the Federal Government of laws providing for an embargo.

"If the impression is correct that the Government of the United States wishes to express the opinion that the Government of a belligerent Power is not entitled to take up a matter which is connected with the preservation or the Power, this is evidently due to the fac that the Washington Cabinet has possibly given a too restricted interpretation to the last paragraph referred to when it understood it to apply only t strictly private rights, the preservation of which the Imperial and Royal Gov ernment naturally holds to be a mat-ter that concerns the neutral Power only.

"As is shown by the report submitted by the French delegate, M. Renault, to the full sitting of The Hague confer ence concerning the thirteenth conven tion (Deuvieme Conf. Intern. de la Paix actes et doc., tome I, p. 226), the said paragraph aims at the preservation of the neutrality; a belligerent can therefore not be denied the right to approach a neutral country and to invoke the clause referred to when the question of the preservation of the rights of a neu tral Power has a bearing on the rights of that belligerent.

Effect on U. S. in War of Its Own.

"The imperial and royal Government has followed with great interest the arguments of the Federal Government setting forth the reasons which, in the opinion of the Washington Cabinet, make it impossible to restrict during the present war the exportation of muni-tions. The imperial and royal Govern-ment nevertheless still hopes that the Federal Government will agree that the easons given, which have a purely practical character, can in no way inence the legal aspect of the question while expressing this hope we do no venture to investigate whether the very fact that the manufacture of war ma-terials in the United States could deelop to such extraordinary dimensions does not rather lead to the conclusion that the United States, disposing as they do in an unlimited way of all the unitions, such as labor, natural prodcts and financial capital, would be reluced to procuring war material from rould naturally stimulate the energy

"The imperial and royal Governmen begs leave to make the following re-

"Among the precedents invoked by the Washington Government, which, as has already been mentioned, cannot be accepted as such, the Federal Government lays stress on the conditions existing at the time of the Boar war, dur ing which one of the belligerents was cut off from the international trade in a way similar to that created during the present war. Such an analogy cannot possibly be detected, because Great Britain did not then decree a stoppage of trade comparable with the unlawful measures now taken by the London Cabinet; the prevention of the supply of arms and ammunition referred to by the I'ederal Government does certainly not amount to a commercial isolation. "Besides, the exportation of munitions war from Austria-Hungary during the Boer war, just as during other wars, whenever such an exportation took place, never exceeded the limits of "The Federal Government, undoubted y, will have learned that Herr Ein cke has publicly protested against the interpretation of one sentence taken from his treatise on neutrality in naval warfare, for the purpose of justifying the duty of the Washington Government; this invalidates the reference made by the Washington Cabinet to German jurists and the conclusions deducted therefrom. Furthermore, the imperial and royal Government naturally holds that a neutral Government cannot issue an embargo with the intention of jeopardising the interests of one of the belligerents. Just as naturally an embargo issued by the Government for the purpose of protecting its neutrality could never be described as a measure taken with the intent of injuring one of the belligerents.

"Finally, the remarks of the Fedinterpretation of one sentence taker

"Finally, the remarks of the Federal Government concerning the vio-tualing of men-of-war are apparent-ly based upon a misunderstanding. The references made by the Imperial and Royal Government to the prohibition of supplying men-of-war, and to the prohibition of making certain supplies to men-of-war, was not aimed at a concrete case; it was simply intended to quote the prohibitions embodied in Articles 8, 19 and 20 of the Kilith Convention of The Hague

The Hague.

The undersigned has the honor to request His Excellency, the American Ambassador, to convey by win to the Washington Cabinst the above to learn, are also considered as unlawful by the Government of the United States of America.

"It is not contended that were the Washington Cabinet to fall in with the views of the imperial and royal Government, the trade relations of the United States of America with both groups of belligerents would be less unequal than they are at presof the legal status defined in "BURIAN."

Vote for Walsh Largest Party Ever Polled in Massachusetts, National Committee Says.

"RESULTS ENCOURAGING"

Republicans Failed to Win Back Full Strength, Statement on Election Declares.

WASHINGTON. Nov. 4.-A statemen issued from the headquarters of the ocratic National Committee, commenting on the results of Tuesday's elections, says:

"The results show that while the Re-publicans and Bull Moose have gotter ogether in some states, the democracy has made large gains from the Progres ive ranks. This is notably true in Massachusetts, from which State the first official returns are available. The Democratic gubernatorial candidate, Gov. Walsh, made a wonderful race. He ed the largest vote ever given crat in the State, while Mr. Mc Call, the Republican candidate, ran way behind the normal Republican vote given party nominees in recent years. "The total vote given Walsh was 229,-312, while McCall received 235,918 votes. The vote for Walsh was nearly 20,000 greater than he received two years ago and $7,000 more than he received in 1912 President Wilson received only 173,400 votes, as against 298,175 for Taft and posevelt. Taft received 265,966 votes 1908, which is 30,000 more than the te given McCall yesterday.

STANLEY'S LEAD 15 CUT TO 2081

Few Missing Precincts Not Expected to Change Result on Kentucky Governorship.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 4.—Unofficial but apparently reliable tabulations today of the gubernatorial vote in Kentucky, Tuesday, gave A. O. Stanley, Democrat, an indicated majority of 2081 over Edwin P. Morrow, Republican. A few precincts were missing, but it was stated that their normal vote could not materially change the result.

Stanley's apparent lead yesterday was cut from approximately 9000 to 4000 and then to slightly over 2000, around which figure it seemed likely today it would

Thin men and women—that big, hearty filling dinner you ate last night. What became of all the fat-producing nourishment it contained? You haven't gained in weight one ounce. How Stomach Acids Cause Indigestion

Sweeten Your Stomach, Dissolve the Acid and Sourcess, Gas, Pain, etc., Will Promptly Stop.

"If thine eye offend thee pluck it out."
That's the way a good many people treat their stomachs. They eat foed that doesn't agree with them, that ferments, sours and causes sharp, biting acid to form in their stomachs, which then begins to burn, bloat and beich gas and wind. This they call indigestion and use some digestive pill to stop the pain and get the food digested out of the stomach. Artificial digestion pushes this food, still sour and acid, into the intestines, where the discomfort and pain stop, but the damage still goes on. Frequent forcing into the intestines of improperly digested, sour, acid food means future intestinal disorders. Every time you take a remedy that artificially digests ond you are weakening your stomach distress after eating merely take some simple antacid that on reaching the disordered stomach will neutralize and sweeten all its food contents. The letter published in your columns on Nov.
1, on "Military Training and Efficiency," by L. E.

THE PROHIBITION DELUSION.

Prohibition was defeated in Ohio, but the reluced majority since the last vote on the issue indicates that the tide of prohibition sentiment is still rising. It may continue to rise until it engulfs states that now seem bulwarks against the assaults of the intolerants.

To those who are rational on the subject and who cherish the fundamental American principle of liberty the preservation of which is worth every sacrifice, the prohibition delusion seems incompre bensible. A study of the arguments sent broadeast by the prohibitionists expose the ground of the delusion. It does not concern the object desired, but the methods by which the object is to

The twisting of reason to serve the prohibition cause resembles that used to support the free silver fallacy. Everyone agreed that financial conditions were had when the free silver propagands was sprung, but there was violent disagreement as to the remedy. The strength of the argument for free silver lay in the conditions, not in the soundness of the remedy, but millions on account of their suffering and resentment were misled into supporting an erroneous and dangerous remedy-a quack "cure," the consequences of which would have been worse than the disease.

So everyone recognizes and condemns the evils of intemperance, but thoughtful people realize that prohibition, which is put forward as a panacea, not only does not remedy them, but brings worse consequences in its train.

The prohibitionists send out a mass of state ments on postal cards and in letters and pamphlets all of them stating the evils of intemperance and turning the statement into an argument in favor of legal prohibition of the manufacture and sale of intoxicants. Take this sentence for instance:

In proportion as a man spends his earnings for drink, he is an unprofitable customer to the grocer, the tallor, the shoemaker, the farmer and a poor tenant to the landlord. Very good. Everyone agrees that a man who spends his earnings for drink is not only a bad customer for all except liquor dealers and saloon keepers, but he is a fool. He is just as much of a fool if he spends his earnings on food alone, or jewelry, or tobacco, or theaters or motion pictures, yet we do not ask that all people be forbid-den these things because fools squander their money on them.

Statements that drunkenness does not promote efficiency or safety and that drunken employes are not profitable, although true, are not arguments for the abolition of all drink by legal mandate; it is an argument for temperance and selfrestraint on the part of all men.

There is not a phase of human experience in which self-restraint is not necessary to success and happiness. There is not a phase of human experience in which force can be substituted for selfcontrol with good results and without increasingly bad results in proportion to the measure of the substitution. To paraphrase the prohibition

In proportion as a man's appetites are con power to control his appetites.

The whole argument comes down to liberty and self-government, the final ideal of all human

All the legal restraints in the world are not worth in the development of manhood and womanhood one act of self-control. All the evils of intemperance do not equal in

We may delude and befool ourselves with false arguments to gain control of the conduct of others, but we cannot divert the consequences of the exercise of tyranny and the negation of the principle of liberty, which stand for limitless abuses. These abuses have caused infinitely more misery

THAT FOREST PARK LETTER.

Mayor Kiel's chivalry in refusing to permit the alleged Borggraefe-Holland letter to be examined by the Art Museum's Board of Control, on the ground that it might injure a woman's reputation and break up a family, is admirable in purpose, but mistaken in application.

The letter is not a private, but a public document, and it concerns public officers and bears upon a nublic interest. It was sent to the Effi-ciency Board, but properly belongs to the Board of Control of the Art Museum whose business it touches.

Concealing the letter now does not help the accused public officers. The only way in which they can be vindicated is by proof that the letter was not written by Miss Borggraefe, secretary, to Mr. Holland, director of the Art Museum, and that the scandalous charge made in connection with it is not true. The only way the Board of Control can justly determine its action in a natter so depply affecting the conduct of officers of the museum is by ascertaining whether or not the letter is genuine as the first step in its investigation. Mayor Kiel is wrong. He should turn the letter over to Chairman Bixby. Mr. Holland and Miss Borggraefe, in view of their denials, should demand that this be done.

Unhappily, Republicans of St. Louis have missed their opportunities to show the people of the State good government.

The reorganized Wabash planned to operate its Missouri lines as a foreign corporation, licensed to do business in this State, whereas the law says that railroads in Missouri can be owned and operated only by corporations organized under Missouri incorporation laws.

The application for a license of the Wabash Co. of Indiana was accordingly rejected by Secretary of State Roach and the $19,655 check to pay its franchise tax under the license was sent

Many states have laws restricting the ownershi of their railroads to their own State corporations Such laws never operate to the detriment of these States and often operate to their decided advantage.

Missouri's enactment of the law was wise, but whether wise or not, it was within its right and privilege Receiver Kearney says the only result is that Missouri is out the $19,655. By no means. Provision for Federal incorporation has not yet been made and a company incorporated in another state can acquire no title to railroad property in this State. It looks as though the Wabash lines in Missouri, whatever temporary arrangement may be made for their operation, must ultimately trolled by force outside of himself he loses his be taken over by a Wahash Co. of Missouri, a creature of Missouri and subject to Missouri control. Doubtless the prospect is unpleasant to the Wabash, but it must come to it.

And it will have to pay an incorporation tax which may be considerably more than the $19.655 tendered as the license tax of a foreign corporation. Its new life under the reorganization should not begin with a brazen attempt to evade the law

A MENTAL AND MORAL DICTATOR.

Park Commissioner Cunliffe is fixing up a motion picture censorship bill under which he will be the chief censor, with power to appoint "sub" censors, who will decide what pictures St. Louisans may see and what they may not see.

Has Mr. Cunliffe the great, broad, universal mind required to determine the tastes and needs and capacities of all St. Louisans? Is he capable adidate for of deciding what is good and what is bad for St.

Is he likely to find "sub" censors with similar great minds and consciences? If Mr. Cunliffe can do this satisfactorily, so that St. Louisans of all kinds and conditions none that are bad for them, mentally and morally. and at the same time do the very large amount of work necessary to maintain the parks and playgrounds in a state of excellence, he is an extraordinary man. He is in line for the Headship of the Universal Hierarchy.

With such a man in charge of the motion pictures, there will be a demand for the enlargement of his field of activity. The people will want him to decide what the newspapers shall print, what dramas shall be produced and what books they shall read. Perhaps he will be asked to censor the sermons to be delivered from the pulpits and the speeches to be made at public meetings. He will become our mental and moral dictator.

MR. ANTWINE ON THE EAST.

T is too bad about the New York Constitution," Mr. Antwine said. "Had Mr. Root gotten up that excellent document for some enterprising Western state, it would have been adopted. Everybody qualified to speak to the subject said it was a good thing, and to have lost it by 350,000 votes must have staggered progress out in that neck of the woods.

"The East presents a great problem to the rest of the country. How great a problem, the women especi ally have reason to know. It is the last stop on our national highway of political progress. Almost any Western state will let the women vote, or adopt anything that promotes the pursuit of happines Not so the East. There are the political Medes and Persians of our popular government, who are deaf to all the appeals of progress and against whom every Democratic wave originating in the republic finally dashes itself to pieces.

"However, the East is part of this country, and we cannot abandon it to the past. We must keep on sending our missionaries out there and mailing our literature. A time will come."

Both Agua Prieta Commanders Tried to Avoid Injuring Americans, He Says.

The whereabouts of Villa and his main force was not definitely known last sight, the report said, although it was rumored he was at Cabullona, 18 miles south of Agua Prieta, recuperating his men for another attack. A few of his men and some of his baggage trains have reached Naco, Sonora. American patrols also reported a camp of about 4000 mcn opposite Osborne, Ariz. Funston estimated Villa's entire force at about 12,000 with 36 pieces of field artillery and a large number of machine guns.

Contrary to usual Mexican custom.

Funston said, Villa had left all the

"We met on the boundary, one mile cast of Agua Prieta trenches, and talked in Spanish about ten minutes. His attitude was quite satisfactory. More detailed information will be given in a personal letter to the Chief of Staff. The withdrawal from around Agua Prieta of Villa's main force began late yesterday afternoon and continued until noon today. Long columns of troops were plainly seen from Douglas moving to the westward. Several hundred men were left, however, to cover the passage near Agua Prieta of certain of Villa's troops from the eastward that had not joined him here. The result was the almost continuous fighting all forenoon with a little cannonading since then. Some of Calles' infantry advanced from the trenches, but were able to accomplish nothing.

"Cavalry then made a sortle, but were-driven back after a sharp engagement. In the meantime the Villa troops from the westward arrived and began pas-sage around the town, being vigorously shelled by the Calles batteries, but sud-ceeded in making the passage. During the day a portion of Calles' artillery in the redoubt at the south salient fired about 500 shots at various columns and detachments of Villa troops within range.

"Practically all these affairs were in ain view of us. The shooting of Cal-ic artillery was fairly good and con-let of Villa under a rather hard shell was excellent. It may not be under-nood at the War Department why, in WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—Carransa troops were the main offenders in firing across the border in the battle at Agus Prieta, according to a report from Major-General Funston received today at the War Department. The report says that both Gen. Calles, the Carranza commander, and Gen. Villa did all they could to prevent injury to American lives and property.

"I could not in fairness have opened fire on Villa without treating Calles the same," he added. Major-General Funston's report, dated last night, described conditions as satisfactory and said he considered the immediate danger past. It describes a conference between Major-General Funston and Villa at the border, of which Gen. Funston says:

"It was the State University. Meetings for this purpose are held by the students every Friday afternoon from 6 to 6 o'clock.

The big cities attracted Marchant.
Leaving his wife plenty of money for support, he would go to Kansas City

She surrendered to the police and told why she had killed her hushand.

"The American Steel Foundries, another war industrial, made an actually unfavorable earnings statement for the nine months ending with September, and naturally this too was reflected in the market. Nevertheless, the other war shares moved sometimes up as well as down; their movement on the whole, perhaps, reflecting bewilderment.

"In September gross earnings of the railways, taken as, a whole, footed up only a trifle more than in the same month of 1914, when the results had been unsatisfactory. The statements of Urgress earnings for the full month of Cotober, which began to come in today, showed a very large increase over 1914; un gains of 10 to 30 per cent being numerous.

"What was even more significant, was the fact that practically all the roads reporting had receipts which increased handsomely over October, 1913—a normal period. This has not previously happened. The large Eastern systems have not yet reported, and the September results indicated that those roads have thus far been the largest beneficiaries of the revival in traffic.

"Although the Bank of England statement showed an increase of $2,125,000 in good holdings during the week, its deposit liabilities so far increased as to lower the reserve ratio. The bank's gold reserve is $64,000,000 below what it was a year ago; but November of 1914 was the period when that reserve touched its maximum. The movement of gold to London had not ceased, and the outflow to New York, even from the bank's Canadian reserve, did not begin in any quantity until the ensuing February.

There was a steady range to quotations on the local Stock Exchange today and business reflected a fair degree of activity. The outside demand for investment and speculation shows continued signs of broadening.

Mercantile Trust stock was a firm spot in the bank and trust list on sales at 3345 and 3345, but National Bank of Commerce, after selling I point lower at 339, was offered at 38.87½, with bids at 337. State National Bank was steady on a transfer at 3187.

United Railways is were firm on sales at 364.75, but the preferred stock was slightly easier at $22.59 sales and offers, with bids at $22. The common stock was inactive.

St. Louis Money Market.

Interesting features of the local money situation include the rising deposits of large corporations, the substantially better reports regarding credits and collections and the purchasing of securities by metropolitan banks for the account of their out-of-town correspondents, unable to fill their loan requirements and employ their funds in the normal commercial manner. Rates under the circumstances show no alterations either for long or short periods.

Profesisonals made the market in wheat futures in the Merchants' Extense today. The price range was irregular.

Liverpool cables were steady, despite our decline of yesterday, and Broomhall construed the Balkan situation as bullish. Domestic receipts were large, but dry weather Southwest is causing talk of drouth, and the winter wheat plant needs moisture over a wide area. The Liverpool cable said:

"The late decline in America and Winnipes yesterday served for a time to create an easier feeling, but later support developed on light native offers and strong country markets, and the undertone was firm. Spot market irregular. The situation in America is viewed with interest, as shown by Bradstreet's, and there is a pause in the demand. Australian and Argentine advices are favorable. Corn was strong, with expectations of light shipments this week from Argentine, firmness of Plata holders and strength in spot. The wheat market is predominated by small supplies available. The elimination of Balkan, and Russian supplies reduces the world's available supply by at least 240.000,000 bushels."

December wheat opened at $1.03%, or %@%c over yesterday's close, sold at $1.03%, then dropped to $1.02%; with a rally to $1.03%, then rallied to $1.04%, or futures were steady on Liverpool cables unchanged to ½d higher. Receipts were liberal.

"Hungary—Corn yield, 179,000,000 bu, against 162,000,000 bu last year.

"Russia—Weather continues unfavorable. Much wheat area still unplanted and farmers discouraged with this year's prospects of distribution. Famine prevails over a wide area.

Broomhall says: "Small supplies and an active demand influenced the wheat market. Balkan and Russian supplies now considered hopeless; reduces the world's available surplus by at least 240,000,000 bu, and therefore American and Canadian receipts will during the next three months influence prices."

"We novelists have got to remember that the public, while claiming stoutly to like truth and realism, really likes—really likes—well, here's a story.

"This'll be a good show,' said the first woman. 'I don't want to be put to sleep, though. Still I can't stand nothin' far-fetched.'
"'Same here,' said the first woman.

"And then they went in and sat through five acts wherein the hero killed 36 Kaffirs with his naked hand, found a diamond as big as a duck's egg, smashed with his revolver from a mile away the bottle of poison that the beautiful heroine was about to swaliow rather than yield to the blandish-ments of the villain, and finally killed the latter in an aeroplane duel, slightly off stage, inheriting later an unexpected dukedom, and so forth and so
